Archive costs are set to soar

THE costs of transforming Ely's former Strikes Bowling Alley into a new home for the Cambridgeshire Archives are set to soar by hundreds of thousands of pounds.

When Cambridgeshire County Council bought the building in Angel Drove last year, the authority estimated the renovation would cost around £4.2 million.

But now, following further architects' investigations, the council faces having to stump up extra funds – anything between £435,000 and £860,000.

On Friday, the authority's assets and investment committee will be discussing how to fund the additional costs.

One method being considered is to use the car park at the archives, once it opens, as a pay and display car park for users of Ely railway station.

Historian Mike Petty, who lives in Stretham, has had concerns about the project since it started.

He said: "The council report acknowledges it would have, in retrospect, been better to use a more traditional route to procure a site.

"It would have been better to wait, they say, but the council has now committed itself to its purchase. Whether it will ever actually be built is anybody's guess.

"And if it is hidden away on an industrial park on the outskirts of Ely how many will travel to use it? Will the council have the money to pay the staff to keep it open anyway?"

The archives are currently in the basement of the council's headquarters; Shire Hall in Cambridge.

The authority says the search for new premises has taken 25 years and that the former bowling alley was considered to be the "best and cheapest solution".

A council spokesman said: "The council's assets and investment committee will consider on Friday whether to fund the additional cost required to ensure that the new archives building in Ely is compliant with stringent flood and fire standards for the county's irreplaceable historical documents, safeguarding them for generations to come.

"The additional funding will also ensure that the building meets the National Archives accreditation standards and is as energy efficient as possible.

"The National Archives are fully supportive of the Ely archives centre project and have approved the property as one which is suitable for conversion to archives accommodation.

"The committee will also consider the use of the car park for pay and display, for Ely station users, and it is hoped that some costs can be recovered by working closely with East Cambs District Council."

BUDDING AUTHOR: Jo Morgan, from Ely, says the inspiration behind her new children's book, Petulia Pig, is her 16-year-old daughter, who has severe learning disabilities.

Jo publishes her first children's book

A MUM from Ely has fulfilled her dreams of writing her own children's book.

Jo Morgan's 16-year-old daughter, who has severe learning disabilities, is the inspiration behind her new book, Petulia Pig.

Jo, who works as a sales advisor at Ely's M&Co. store, said: "My daughter, like many young people with additional needs, struggles to communicate."

"She loves pigs so I decided to write Petulia Pig to give my daughter and other people with disabilities a voice. I'm really pleased with the book. It's funny and I think it will appeal to all children."

The book, which has been illustrated by Jo's niece, Emma Richardson, is now available to buy as an E-book on Amazon.

EDUCATION

Pre-school gets welfare notice

A PRE-SCHOOL temporarily closed after being issued with a Welfare Requirement Notice (WRN).

Ofsted visited Busy Bees Pre-school in Littleport unannounced on October 4 after the provider "raised concerns about staffing suitability".

Inspectors issued the pre-school, in Grange Lane, with a WRN following the visit – and as a result the facilities temporarily closed.

The pre-school, which was rated as good in all areas by Ofsted last November, reopened last Thursday and a copy of a letter sent to parents was submitted to the Ely News the same day.

Emma Boughen, chairwoman of the pre-school committee, said: "We would like to inform you that the setting was visited unannounced by Ofsted on October 4 and has been issued with a WRN.

JORDAN DAY
@JordanDayCN

"The acting management team had become aware of the welfare issues and had followed reporting protocol necessary. They were actively dealing with addressing these shortly before Ofsted visited."

"We would like to reassure you that an action plan has been put into place to address the issues identified and that the setting is working with the local authority to address the actions as quickly as possible."

In its report, Ofsted said:

"On September 15 we received a notification from the provider that raised concerns about staffing suitability."

"We carried out an unannounced visit to the provider to discuss the incident and we found that there were breaches relating to the notification. Furthermore, we found that the provider was not meeting the requirements for 'information and records'."

There are numerous requirements which the pre-school must now meet, including implementing a safeguarding policy which is in line with Local Safeguarding Children Board procedures.

Ofsted says it will be monitoring the pre-school to "ensure they meet this action".

SHOPPING

Angry traders want 'fair deal'

BUSINESSES are suffering as a result of specialist markets being held in Ely High Street on Saturdays.

That's the message from shopkeepers who are urging East Cambs District Council to "put the interests of Ely's rate-paying shops before outside traders".

It is the inaugural Vegan Fair, planned for Ely High Street on Saturday, October 29, which has sparked anger.

Barry Lonsdale, chairman of the Ely Traders' Association, said: "We had a meeting with the council following the last continental market which was held in the High Street on a Saturday."

"The backs of the stalls were facing the shops, completely blocking them off, and trade really suffered. The council listened to our concerns and told us they would take them seriously."

"Businesses then found out about the vegan fair when one of the organisers went around asking if flyers could be put up in shop windows. There wasn't a whisper from the council – all the concerns

JORDAN DAY

we'd raised had fallen on deaf ears."

The vegan fair is set to run from 9am-3pm and will feature more than 20 stalls.

Mr Lonsdale said: "We've asked for another meeting with the council. They've got to put the interests of Ely's rate-paying shops before the interests of outside traders."

"We have a Market Place for a reason – markets like this should be held there – and preferably on a Sunday, which is a quiet day for Ely."

Ely resident Kate Comp is also angry. In a letter to the council and the Ely News, she wrote: "A close friend of mine owns a business on Ely High Street and I feel compelled to express my feelings about this [Ely Vegan Fair] and other events."

"Although I think this is great for visitors and residents, I am completely non-plussed as to why said events are consistently held on the High Street on a Saturday, thereby penalising rate-paying business owners on the busiest retail day of the week.

"Retailers are currently facing unprecedented challenges to their survival and despite business owners vocalising their displeasure regarding such events along the High Street, the council seems content to reward one-off stall holders on a repeated basis."

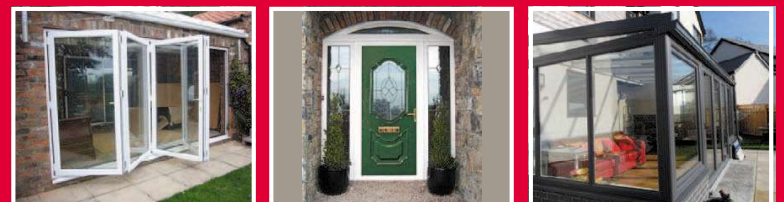

Emma Grima, corporate director of the district council's trading company, said: "We visited shopkeepers when promoting the event and briefed them on the plans for the vegan fair."

"We have taken active steps to address some of their concerns, particularly around access and deliveries, and we have limited the number of vegan fair traders spreading them out down the High Street to enhance the area."

"We will continue to work with shopkeepers to enhance the vitality of Ely city centre."

Charity celebrates fifth birthday

A CHARITY which supports local people who have survived a stroke – or those living with a long term neurological illness – is celebrating its fifth birthday.

Users of Pos + Ability, as well as its trustees, volunteers and supporters, came together at Ely Community Centre on Friday to celebrate how far the charity has come.

The charity provides chair-based exercises for people who have survived a stroke or who are living with illnesses such as Parkinson's, Multiple Sclerosis and Muscular Dystrophy.

When it first started in 2011, Pos+Ability had six clients and met at one venue. Today, it supports around 70 clients at four different venues in Cambridgeshire.

Modified car meet a success

ALMOST 300 vehicles were on display at a car meet near Ely on Saturday.

The event – the end of season meet for the East Cambs Modified car group – was held at Littleport Leisure Centre.

As reported, a meet was due to take place in a car park in Angel Drove, Ely, on September 10 but police and East Cambs District Council stopped it from going ahead by closing the car park.

Police announced the closure – and the fact that a dispersal order would be in place – the day before the meet was due to go ahead following what they described as “previous complaints of anti-social behav-

our”.

While the move was welcomed by many residents, it angered members of the modified group and some locals.

Police were present at the event on Saturday. Speaking afterwards, Sgt Phil Priestley said: “The event organiser spoke with us regularly in the immediate build up to the event, and it went off smoothly without any complaints or incidents.

“It was well handled on the day and we're keen to work with East Cambs Modified to support them in future.”

Kyle Wassmer, founder of East Cambs Modified, hailed the event a huge success and said there were 297 vehicles present. The meet also raised £305 for the East Anglian Air Ambulance.

Kyle said: “I would like to say a massive thank you to Littleport Leisure Centre for trusting us and supporting us throughout the whole thing and helping us to pull off an awesome afternoon.

“We have had nothing but compliments and great reviews from the general public who enjoyed seeing all of the show cars and modified cars.”

Group aims to spread some love

A NEW group has been formed to help “spread a bit of positivity” following news that a two-day neo-Nazi rally was held in Haddenham.

Ely Community Against Hate has been set up by a group of friends who say they were “appalled” by the nature of the rally, which, as reported, is now being investigated by police.

The new group ran a stall at Ely Market on Saturday where they helped to “spread love and tolerance” by handing out badges, stickers and cookies to passers by.

Local police and firefighters also joined forces to run a stall at Ely Market last Thursday as part of National Hate Crime Awareness Week.

Ely Community Against Hate is on Facebook.

Police need to be vigilant

I WAS very much disturbed to read the headlines (Ely News, October 13) about the neo-Nazi gathering at Haddenham.

It seems from reports that both East Cambridgeshire District Council and the police were easily duped by this group of organisers. What has the police commissioner got to say about this? I see now that he has sent out details of meetings he is holding around the district, to campaign against hate. I suppose because the application to hold this event was made online to hold a private party there was no real contact with these people, who were clever enough to say it was for Help the Heroes.

Both the police and East Cambridgeshire District Council need to be ultra-vigilant about any such applications for gatherings such as the one that took place in our district. All that needs for evil to prosper is for good people to do nothing.

All of us need to express love and tolerance to all around us. It was a complete disgrace that there was a call for all employers to disclose the number of foreign workers they employ. We need to remember that all those who have come here from Europe to work are not foreigners. They are Europeans like we ourselves.

When promise falls short

I RECENTLY received an end-of-year performance report from ECDC.

The council's planning service promises to "ensure that the customer is at the heart of everything we do".

Not my experience and I take this opportunity to warn people who object to something to try to attend the relevant planning meeting and take notes. Try to access the minutes before the next meeting to check they are accurate so you can challenge them eg what was agreed at a planning meeting about tennis courts behind my house was so inaccurately minuted that the agreements mean nothing.

I raised an FOI in March and was concerned to discover that councils do not "maintain a register of what infrastructure has been provided by the wide range of public and private organisations which maintain and upgrade infrastructure. Individual development schemes are assessed on a case by case basis . . ."

The document also states that yet another local plan has been devised; I am on the register for consultations and nothing came to me about this despite the assertion that local residents were consulted. I have lost count of how many there have been in my 22 years here, but do know they do little to help local low paid workers either acquire social housing or get on the housing ladder. Nor do they ensure suitable private retirement housing and I do not mean flats with exorbitant annual fees. I wonder if the reason for passing such mass building in Soham, much on green space, has more to do with lucrative rewards from central government than what is best for our once small rural town.

Well folks time to honour your commitment to ensure that the customer is at the heart of everything and that includes those of us who are local and actually pay council tax. I suggest that planners pay a visit to our excellent surgery and stay for a session, you should be very concerned.

Bright future outside the EU

THE EU project has most certainly not been open and transparent, as suggested recently.

In 1975 I was hoodwinked by Heath into supporting what I was led to believe was a Free Trade Area: he knew full well that it was the first step towards a Federal Europe.

Hain, as Minister for Europe, told us that signing away more of our rights was merely "a tidying up exercise".

Our fishing industry has been all but destroyed in the name of fish conservation. The EU has financed the building of super trawlers for Ireland and Poland. Our local MEP appeared on television telling us that "the cost of EU bureaucracy was a mere pin prick". Yes, a pin prick which could fill in a lot of pot holes, or keep open a lot of day care centres etc.

The EU gravy train makes the Westminster version look like a clockwork toy, not to mention the corruption, the auditors have refused to sign off the accounts for decades.

All this is not surprising. Jean Monnet, the Marxist regarded by many as the founding father of the EU Project, said at the outset that countries would not give up their democratic freedoms willingly and that the whole operation would have to be conducted by stealth. Is this not exactly what has happened?

One of the "Project Fear" scares was the possibility of further wars in Europe. The history of the continent is indeed blood soaked and very depressing. However, we must remember that wars are caused by politicians.

There is a great scepticism, and in my view, a healthy distrust of politicians. This, combined with a greater interaction between the peoples of the continent, make the prospect of war much less likely.

Much is made of the catastrophe which will befall business and the financial services if we leave Europe.

It is not surprising that the big institutions wish to remain. They have invested in large compliance departments, paid for ultimately by the consumer, so that they can move smoothly through the labyrinth of regulations. They hate sudden change as a certain amount of disruption would ensue. Big corporations have no loyalties but to themselves, they will move to the most favourable trading environment with an agility which is totally impossible in the lumbering, bureaucratic system of the public sector.

If we create a suitable trading environment outside the EU, which is possible if we release ourselves from the shackles of Brussels, companies will happily locate in the UK.

There is going to be turbulence in the short term, aggravated by the refusal of the Remainers – together with the BBC reporting gleefully on any bad news which can be attributed to Brexit – to accept that there is a bright future for us on the world stage outside the EU.

MEMORABLE DAY: Micky and Jack Clarke-Morgan renewed their vows at the Old Palace in Ely – the place where they met while working for the Sue Ryder charity

ANNIVERSARY

Happy 10th for couple

A COUPLE celebrated their tenth wedding anniversary by renewing their vows in the magnificent building where they met.

Jack Clarke-Morgan met his wife, Micky, at the Old Palace in Ely when it was the Sue Ryder care home.

The couple, who were both working as carers for the charity at the time, got married in St Peter's Church in Wilburton in 2006.

Jack, who lives with Micky in Grunty Fen, near Witchford, said: "We thought it'd be nice to celebrate our tenth wedding anniversary by renewing our wedding vows."

"We met at the Old Palace when we were both care workers at the Sue Ryder care home and as most local people will know, it is a truly beautiful building."

"The palace is now owned by King's Ely so I contacted them to see if we could use the palace's chapel for the ceremony. The school were fantastic and really went out of their way to make sure it went ahead."

Around 40 of Jack and Micky's close friends and family attended the ceremony on October 7.

JORDAN DAY
@JordanDayCN

The theme was Victorian Gothic and the service was led by the Rev Canon Fiona Brampton – vicar for Wilburton, Haddenham, Witchford and Wentworth – who led the couple's wedding ceremony a decade ago.

Jack, who now works with a local young person with additional needs, said: "Everything about the ceremony was special – the fact that Fiona led it, the venue and the fact that the majority of our guests followed the Victorian Gothic theme."

"We love the Victorian Gothic look – a lot of people think it's a dark, severe look but, if done properly, it can be really classy and chic."

"After the ceremony we enjoyed a Gothic manor themed party at Witchford Village Hall. Micky and I would like to thank everyone for making it so memorable."

Micky now works as a social worker and is based at Ely's Princess of Wales Hospital.

LETTING OFF STEAM: Pupils try out samba drumming and bottom right, mask making
Pictures: Richard Patterson

School's fun Rio day

CHILDREN tried their hand at goalball, boccia and samba drumming during a fun-filled Rio-themed day at their school.

The action-packed day was held at Rackham Primary School in Witchford last Thursday.

All pupils were able to take part in the sport sessions, as well as drumming workshops and craft activities, in which they made colourful carnival masks.

Deji Tobais, a 24-year-old sprinter who runs both the 100m and 200m distances, also visited to work with the pupils - and parents had the chance to join in the fun after school.

BUSINESS

Over £1m made at vintage sale

JORDAN DAY

@JordanDayCN

MORE than £1 million worth of vintage tractors, steam engines, classic vehicles and collectors' items were sold at the most expensive item in the 150 lot tractor section.

The Holt was initially built for the military and was supplied to the British, French, Russian and US armies during the First World War.

This specimen in particular was originally part of the famous Heidrick Tractor Collection, part of the California Agriculture Museum, and is thought to have been built in 1917 to military specifications.

It was sold to a private collector from Lincolnshire.

Other tractors which saw strong prices included a 1989 Marshall for £23,000 and a 1978 Massey Ferguson 1505 which made £10,200.

Vintage motorcycles saw some top prices paid with the main attraction being a 1931 1200cc Harley Davidson with a fibre-glass replica Swallow known to exist in the UK, an incredibly rare Holt 75 made £62,000, making it the most expensive item in the 150 lot tractor section.

sidecar, which sold for £13,000 and was purchased by an enthusiast from Herefordshire.

Live steam models were also popular items of the day, with £12,500 paid for a four inch scale Foster agricultural engine built from scratch.

A number of three inch scale smaller models, belonging to Mr N H Melton of Horncastle, sold for more than £1,000 per piece.

A series of rural and domestic bygone items from Holkham Hall sold for more than £15,000 in total, with all proceeds going to the new interactive farming exhibition at the estate, Field to Fork.

The amnesty is part of a week-long national initiative called Operation Sceptre. There were 328 possession of weapons offences in Cambridgeshire in 2015/16 - a 37.2 per cent increase on the previous year.

Residents can hand in their weapons at Ely police station.

Colleagues taking on race for Tony

FOUR support workers will be putting their stamina to the test to raise funds for a man who they assist.

Tony Starr, from Littleport, has a learning disability and is supported in his own home, and in the community, by staff from Thera East Anglia.

Tony, who is well known in the Littleport area, has a specialist sensory swing in his garden, which Thera staff say is vital for his health and wellbeing.

The swing requires some maintenance and new flooring laid beneath it in order to keep him safe, but, as they are for many people, financial times are tough for Tony.

On Saturday, Justin Smith, Sheraley Marks, Patrick Griffiths and Demi Stewart – who all live in the Ely area and work for Thera East Anglia – are taking on the 6km Muddy Maniacs Halloween assault course in Bury St Edmunds.

Sheraley, a community support

JORDAN DAY
@JordanDayCN

leader for Thera East Anglia, said: "Times are tough for many of us, and this is no different for Tony.

"Tony has a few things he needs to pay for but his garden swing is of particular importance to him.

"The swing requires some maintenance and new flooring put beneath it in order to keep him safe.

"The swing is not a luxury for Tony; it is a necessity and an amazing sensory experience for him.

"Some work has already been done to access funds to pay for the maintenance and specialist flooring, but this is not enough.

"We have decided to put ourselves through cold, muddy agony in order to raise more funds.

"The race will involve many obstacles, humiliation, trench foot and pain. We will all have to run a long way, through water, mud and tears, whilst overcoming our fear of heights, depths and inflatable death traps."

Operational manager, Justin, said the Thera East Anglia team have raised around £500 in sponsorship so far, but that they hope to raise £2,000 in total.

He said: "Tony loves and needs his specialist swing, and any surplus money made will be used to help Tony around his garden and home via other projects.

"We'd really appreciate people's donations, no matter how small."

Thera East Anglia supports adults with a learning disability to live in their own home and in their local communities.

EDUCATION

Computing course for adults with disabilities

A CREATIVE computing course could really click with adults who have disabilities and who are looking to develop basic IT skills.

The new course is being developed by Cambridgeshire County Council's adult learning and skills service after learners requested it.

The course promotes independence for adults with support needs and will include digital photography, using the internet, using office packages and learning basic journalism skills.

The course is part of the council's Move on Up programme for adults with learning difficulties and disabilities, and is for people from the East Cambs area.

Niki Brown, the tutor who is delivering the course, said: "Learners really enjoyed making their own bookmarks at a recent taster session.

"Our Creative Computing course aims to help individuals develop IT skills which will promote independent choices, build confidence and include learners in the digital technology world."

Sessions will start after half term on Monday afternoons making use of the technology at Ely Library.

Head joins race team to help raise cash for school

JORDAN DAY
@JordanDayCN

A HEADMASTER swapped his shirt and tie for running attire to help raise funds for his school.

Simon Bainbridge, principal of Highfield School in Ely, was joined by a group of parents and supporters of the school – Tanya Shenton, Jenny Woolner, Boris Maygar and Ros Grooms – for the Wimpole Hall Half Marathon earlier this month.

Together they raised more than £800 for the school, which caters for children and young people from across the Ely area with additional needs.

The Highfield Friends and Parents' Association (HFPA) is busy fundraising to install new accessible iBoards into classrooms and each year Team Highfield band together for a little fun run – or marathon effort – depending on the participating runners.

Mrs Grooms, who is chairwoman of the HFPA, said: "We have been running to raise funds for the school over the past three years and have been able to install iBoards into three classes, purchase iPads and generally boost the accessible technology for Highfield learners.

"This year we want to purchase an iBoard for another class in our upper school. We had a fundraising target of £1,000 but we are still short and really need the goodwill of a few more sponsors."

Highfield School is part of the Active Learning Trust Academy.

The school caters for both boys and girls aged 2-19 and all pupils have statements of special educational needs, which refers to a significant learning difficulty.

Some pupils may have associated behavioural problems, physical disabilities, sensory, communication or medical needs.

Mr Bainbridge said: "I love the team approach to running and am not at all competitive. I just love it when the parents zoom past me!"

Mr Bainbridge came third in the team, losing out to parents Boris and Tanya.

PETS

Black cats 'make purr-fect pets'

JORDAN DAY

@JordanDayCN

PEOPLE are turning their noses up at black cats – and Ely and District Cats Protection wants it to stop.

The branch, based in Little Downham, currently has two litters of kittens looking for new homes, and the only ones not reserved are the black ones.

Cats Protection's annual National Black Cat Day is on October 27 and co-ordinator of the local branch, Linda Hutchinson, is urging people to ditch their superstitions and give black moggies a chance.

Linda said: "The unfortunate thing for these cats is that not only do we have more of them coming in, they are also much harder to find homes for. Black and black and white cats often get overlooked by prospective owners who would rather adopt other colours such as ginger or tabby cats.

"We are really keen to point out that black and black and white cats have just as much love to give and make equally good companions."

National figures from Cats Protection show that black and black and white cats take on average 22 per cent longer to find a home than cats of any other colour.

In 2015, they made up 45 per cent of all the cats cared for by Cats Protection.

Over the centuries, people have believed that black cats bring bad luck, some linking this belief to a connection with the notorious Salem Witch Trials.

In Celtic mythology, a fairy (or witch) takes the form of a black cat, and in the 18th century, pirates are said to have believed that if a black cat walks towards you, it will bring bad luck.

Linda said: "Currently we have two litters of kittens and the only ones not reserved are the black ones.

"One adult black cat we currently have is Tulio, a two-year-old male. He is very friendly, good with children and other cats, and will make someone a lovely pet.

"Beauty is more than fur deep and I guarantee you that if you ask anyone who owns a black cat, they will tell you they are just as loving as any other colour cat."

LOCAL AUTHOR: Julian Sedgwick worked with students in Years 7, 8 and 9.

Author's visit a joy for bookworms

STUDENTS at Witchford Village College were enthralled when sword juggling author Julian Sedgwick paid them a visit.

Julian, who lives near Ely, spent the day transporting pupils on a journey of mystery and adventure, inspiring them through his life-long interest in arts and culture of China and Japan, as well as performance street art and circus.

Students were also able to buy signed copies of his books, including Ghost of Shanghai and the Mysterium series.

ADVERTORIAL FEATURE

Paul Waggitt,
Chartered Financial Planner

Absolute Sense Independent Financial Advisers Limited

It has been well over a year since I wrote into the local paper and it would be an understatement to say that a lot has changed in financial services during this period. The past few years has seen the current government impose further restrictions on pension provision in order to reduce the overall cost to the Treasury.

Many hardworking individuals are now affected by the £1,000,000 overall pensions limit and sometimes without being aware of this. They may also have seen their annual contribution limit cut to £10,000 simply because their remuneration structure has exceeded a certain level. What was once purported to be a simple system to work out the contributions limits is mired in potential pitfalls that could result in penal tax charges to the unwary investor.

Worse still there was concern in the last budget that the government would completely overhaul the way tax relief is determined when saving into a pension. Any changes could have been disastrous for higher rate tax payers and these plans may 'rise from the ashes' in the next budget statement.

For those already at retirement, or perhaps just approaching, the government freedoms have certainly increased the appetite for those looking to self-manage withdrawals from their pension funds. The risk of depleting the pension fund is real and should not be underestimated. Without a credible financial plan these individuals might find themselves in pensioner poverty in 15- 20 years' time.

Even the State Pension has undergone a radical change with the introduction of the Flat Rate State Pension from 6th April 2016. The government's intention, in the long run, was to equalise the State Pension for all. At least for the next decade, trying to determine your State Pension entitlement is as clear as mud. Careful planning is also required for those who may have been planning to defer their State Pension due to the perceived generous revaluation rates.

The government have even used the well understood ISA to develop an entire new range of products which is only set to baffle unwary investors. Each product has a credible intention but when combined together will start to look as complex as the much loved pension regime. Perhaps you are interested in the AIM ISA, the Help to Buy ISA, the Lifetime ISA, the P2P ISA, Stocks and Shares ISA or perhaps just a simple Cash ISA. When overwhelmed with decisions rational investors revert to doing whatever is easiest - perhaps just a Cash ISA this year then?

If we overlay the above changes with the recent vote to leave the European Union and you can see why there is a real need to create a credible financial plan that will allow you to achieve your medium and long term objectives. This is where an expert view can really help to better understand the issues at hand.

As the only Chartered Financial Planning Firm in the City then perhaps you would like to take up our offer of a free 30 minute consultation to discuss your financial needs and objectives. I still hold out that we make a pretty good coffee too.

COMMUNITY

Charity plea to help the lonely

THE Ely area has been identified as a loneliness hot spot – and local residents are being urged to take action.

A study carried out by the older persons charity, Contact the Elderly, has highlighted Ely, and nearby St Neots, as communities in the East of England where isolation is higher than average.

The figures show that almost nine out of every 10 people in the east feel concerned for a lonely older person in their community.

More than a quarter of people in the east have noticed a lonely older person in their community and almost half of residents in the east do not feel confident that they know a way to help.

Sixty per cent of people in the east also believe that loneliness is a problem in their town or village.

Contact the Elderly has launched a new campaign – Be Our Guest – which is calling on residents in East Cambs to encourage lonely people in their area to try out a tea party – or put someone forward who may benefit from attending.

JORDAN DAY
@JordanDayCN

Supported by volunteers across the UK, Contact the Elderly organises free monthly Sunday afternoon tea parties throughout the year, ensuring isolated older people have a regular social activity to look forward to.

This vital lifeline of friendship makes a huge difference to the lives of thousands of guests and volunteers alike in their local communities.

Mary Rance, the charity's CEO, said: "Loneliness amongst older people is a problem that can easily be solved by a community."

"By its nature, social isolation often means that the loneliest people are the hardest to reach. It's not the case that they're not there, it's just that guests-to-be don't know our service is available, and admitting you're lonely is difficult.

"At Contact the Elderly, we recognise that a grass roots approach is needed. We've had a fantastic stream of eager volunteers sign-up to support us, and with the help of the general public, we hope to identify those older people that need our service most to enable us to set up new tea parties across the country.

"We can't be on every street, but we can encourage people to keep an eye out for their neighbour and help them know how to offer assistance in a discreet but significant way."

To find out more about the campaign, or to directly refer a potential older guest, call Freephone 0800 716 543 or visit contact-the-elderly.org.uk

Novelist guest at festival

CANADIAN poet and novelist Margaret Atwood visited Ely as part of the city's hugely popular Autumn Literary Festival.

Hundreds of people packed inside the cathedral last Wednesday evening to hear Margaret, winner of the prestigious Arthur C. Clarke Award and Prince of Asturias Award for Literature, talk about her new book, Hag-Seed – and her life in general.

While she is best known for her work as a novelist, Margaret has also published 15 books of poetry, is an environmental activist and is the inventor of the LongPen.

The festival is organised by Toppings and upcoming author talks include John Julius Norwich, Keggie Carew and Ian Rankin.

COMPETITION

Design the perfect mix to be a cocktail winner

JORDAN DAY
@JordanDayCN

DO you think you've got what it takes to create the perfect Christmas cocktail?

Ely's boutique Poets House hotel and the Ely News have joined forces to run a special festive cocktail competition.

Vio Rujoiu and Daniel Flood, two experienced mixologists who run the Study Bar at Poets House, say they are looking for some ultra creative concoctions from entrants in order to be selected as one of the three finalists.

Originally from Bucharest, Vio considers himself to be a 'classic man' when it comes to cocktails.

He said: "You have to be able to blend the perfect champagne cocktail served on crushed ice before you can start adding contemporary twists to the recipes."

"By understanding how flavours connect, using quality ingredients but keeping the recipe simple, you can create some memorable combinations."

For the latest news visit our website at ely-news.co.uk

Dan has perfected his craft over the past three years under Vio's guidance. He said: "I am lucky in that I seem to have a natural instinct for mixing flavours and ingredients. I love pushing the boundaries on the more traditional cocktails, adding variations to create something new."

"Both Vio and I are looking forward to seeing what recipes people send in to us."

To be in with a chance of winning a masterclass with Vio and Dan at Poets House on November 10, simply send your recipe, including a name for your cocktail with a description, method and list of ingredients, together with your name and contact details to Reception@poetshouse.uk.com

The closing date for entries is October 30 and the hotel will pick the top three cocktails.

The competition is open to amateur mixologists only and all entrants must be aged 18 or over.

Mirror Books

How does an ordinary housewife become a notorious international criminal?

When Anne Darwin told the world - and her family - that her husband, John, had disappeared while canoeing in the North Sea, her life changed forever. She had just lied to the police, the press, her friends and neighbours and her own sons. While her husband hid next door, Anne claimed the life insurance - then left with him to start a new life in Panama. For the first time, Anne opens up about her part in the scheme; her marriage, her harrowing time behind bars and the runaway train of lies that followed their plan to defraud insurance companies with the aid of a canoe.

Question - As a landlord, is it essential to use an ARLA-registered letting agent?

Michaela White, Lettings Manager at Cheffins Ely office comments:

When looking to let your property, it is important to remember that not all lettings agents are professionally qualified. At Cheffins we are unusual in that we put each and every one of our agents through qualifications with ARLA, The Association of Residential Lettings Agents. With complex web of law, regulation and codes of practice governing let residential property, it is essential that the agent dealing with your property is keeping you safe and complying with law, and it is only the agents registered with ARLA who can really do this. ARLA-registered agents offer a highly professional service and ensure that during every step of the process of letting your property, your money and your rights are protected. Being registered with ARLA means that your agent is different. They are backed up by Client Money Protection (CMP), so if your agent deals on the wrong side of the law, you are always covered. The agents have professional Indemnity Insurance, so as a landlord you have peace of mind when it comes to negligence or bad advice. ARLA agents are required to be trained and qualified following a programme of Continuous Professional Development, which means that their skills are up to date and that the advice they are giving you is from a solid knowledge base. Every year tenants and landlords lose thousands of pounds through dealing with agents who are inexperienced and not dealing with clients in a professional manner. If you let your property through an ARLA agent, your money is totally protected from the word go. Lastly, if something goes wrong with your tenancy, you have the option to redress the situation by taking the matter up with ARLA. It is important when instructing a letting agent you look for the ARLA logo which should be displayed clearly on all agents' marketing material and correspondence. Too many agents in the industry are not professionally trained or up to date with numerous legislative changes which means that as a landlord you are in potential danger of losing vast sums of money or breaking the law. ARLA requires only one agent per office to be registered, however Cheffins goes above and beyond to that each of their agents goes through all of the correct training.

Student rise in car mobile use

AN alarming number of university students have admitted to using their mobile phones while behind the wheel, as well as speeding and drink-driving.

According to a survey of 2,313 young Europeans commissioned by Ford, 43 per cent said they had sent texts while driving, while 38 per cent used apps and 36 per cent answered phone calls.

An additional 60 per cent said they break the speed limit, while 13 per cent had admitted to drink-driving.

Comparatively, of those who left school at 18, 45 per cent said they speed, 9 per cent admitted to drink-driving and 41 per cent claimed to use their phone behind the wheel.

These findings come in light of earlier research from the World Health Organisation and the European Road Safety Observatory that found car crashes are the leading cause of death among young people.

Jim Graham at Ford Driving Skills for Life said: "It is crucial students, and all young people, to understand the terrible consequences."

Latest Discovery has 85% aluminium body

THE new Land Rover Discovery has been unveiled, featuring seven full-sized adult seats and an updated exterior design.

The fifth generation of the 4x4 has been designed with families in mind while also keeping the all-terrain capability the model is well known for. Therefore, there are nine USB ports and in-car wi-fi, as well as an intelligent full-time four-wheel-drive system and off-road driving assistance technology.

Its new aluminium construction saves an impressive 480kg from the outgoing model, with 85 per cent of the body made from the lightweight material.

The exterior design has been overhauled to bring the new Discovery in line with the rest of the Land Rover range, but the overall shape is familiar. Trademark features such as the stepped roofline remain, while the narrow headlights and grille are familiar from existing cars such as Discovery Sport and Evoque.

Speaking about how the design team approached reinventing such an iconic car, Jeremy Hicks, managing director of Jaguar Land

LAND ROVER LATEST: Fifth-generation Discovery priced from £42,495

Rover, said: "The underpinning value of a Discovery is the authenticity of its capability – the car that can climb up a mountainside and wade through rivers.

"And then there's the versatility – the car that can tow 3.5 tonnes, have all the seats folded and carry whatever you want, wherever you want. The trick has been to take that, keep it, but put it in a new body."

Six hundred First Edition models are being made available from launch. These feature three unique exterior colours, bespoke interior trim and 22-inch alloy wheels.

The new Discovery will be available in the UK in the spring of next year with prices starting at £42,495. First Edition models will be the most expensive, priced from £68,295.

MAZDA MX-5 RF: From £22,195

Mazda unveils the latest MX-5, the RF

MAZDA has revealed the pricing and specifications for its new MX-5 RF.

Fitted with a retractable folding roof, the MX-5 RF is priced from £22,195.

A special edition car will be available at launch, in the form of the Launch Edition MX-5 RF. This is limited to 500 units, but brings with it unique styling elements and additional equipment.

The Launch Edition is powered by a 2.0-litre petrol engine, and is differentiated from the rest of the range through a twin-tone roof, BBS wheels and a black rear spoiler. Inside, the RF's seats are trimmed in Alcantara.

The standard car still has a huge amount of standard equipment including a limited-slip differential and 17-inch alloy wheels.

Pre-orders are now open.

ROAD TEST

Fiat 124 Spider

factfile

Model: Fiat 124 Spider 1.4 MultiAir Lusso Plus (£23,295)

Engine: 1.4-litre turbocharged petrol producing 138bhp and 177lb/ft of torque

Transmission: Six-speed manual, driving rear wheels

Top speed: 134mph

0-62mph: 7.5 seconds

Economy: 44.1mpg

Emissions: 148g/km

A MAZINGLY, the 124 manages to be both very new and hardly new at all. It shares little more than a name with the old 124, which went out of production in the 1980s, but it shares much with a far more modern roadster – the fourth-generation Mazda MX-5.

The bodywork takes cues from the old car, what with the round headlights and the wide, vertical grille, but applies them in a distinctly modern way. The majority of the underpinnings, meanwhile, are pretty much straight from Mazda's much-acclaimed drop-top.

The suspension has been tweaked but the only major change is the new powertrain. Unlike the MX-5, which uses naturally aspirated 1.5 and 2.0-litre engines, the 124 gets a 1.4-litre turbocharged engine. It sits between the two Mazda engines in terms of power output, but the turbocharger gives it more torque and more mid-range grunt, lending the Fiat a very different character to its Japanese sibling.

LOOKS AND IMAGE

No matter which angle you approach it from, the 124 Spider is an impossibly pretty car.

Inside, it's basically identical to the MX-5, with the circular air vents, driver-focused cockpit and seven-inch infotainment system that perches on the main dashboard.

The changes are just enough to give the 124 a charming Italian character the MX-5 can never match. The Mazda may be a pure driving machine, but the Fiat is undoubtedly more stylish.

SPACE AND PRACTICALITY

As with the MX-5, the 124 Spider is hardly the last word in spaciousness. It's only a two-seater, and there isn't even a glove box as such.

There is a little more space in the boot, but it's hardly cavernous back there but it's more than just the lack of storage that makes the car impractical, however – it's the lack of adjustability. The seat has plenty of fore and aft adjustment, but the backrest adjustment is notchy and the seat base doesn't move up and down. The biggest problem, though, is that the steering wheel doesn't adjust for reach. Taller drivers might struggle to get comfortable.

BEHIND THE WHEEL

The 138bhp engine may be less powerful than the MX-5's 158bhp 2.0-litre unit, but it offers similar performance. The 7.5-second sprint from 0-62mph is two-tenths slower than the Mazda's, but the 134mph top speed is marginally faster.

In the real world, though, it actually feels substantially quicker than the Mazda. The turbocharger gives it real punch and means you don't have to drop so many cogs when overtaking.

There is a touch of turbo lag, which is a little annoying, but keeping it on the boost is a small, yet rewarding, challenge.

Plus, whereas the MX-5 is pin-sharp, the Fiat is a little woollier on turn-in, and the body rolls more than the Mazda. The steering, too, is a touch less direct. But those small concessions don't stop it being a really good car to drive briskly.

The MX-5 is the ultimate driver's car, and though the 124 is a half-step behind in terms of excitement and involvement, it's actually a far better all-rounder.

VALUE FOR MONEY

The 124 Spider pricing starts from £19,545, which buys you the basic Classica trim. It's £1,100 more expensive than the basic 1.5-litre MX-5, but you do get the more potent turbocharged engine, 16-inch alloy wheels, keyless start and aircon, plus niceties such as cruise control.

Upgrading to the £22,295 Lusso gives you 17-inch alloys, climate control and the seven-inch infotainment system, which comes with satnav and reversing camera.

At the top of the range, however, is the £23,295 Lusso Plus, which adds leather upholstery, automatic lights and wipers and a Bose surround sound system.

WHO WOULD BUY ONE?

As a soft-top you could live with every day, the 124 actually beats the MX-5 by a nose, but it is noticeably more expensive than the Mazda and doesn't offer quite the same performance or handling.

But where you'll always respect the MX-5 for being a technical masterpiece, but you'll love the 124.

How to improve a car's performance by 70%

The effectiveness consultancy Benchmarking recently analysed what happens when companies include press advertising in their media mix.

They looked at more than 500 econometric models, covering a five-year period and, as the table here shows, they found that adding newspapers dramatically increases the effectiveness of other media.

In the automotive sector they reviewed companies that ranged from the big spending German giants of the industry to medium sized independent carmakers.

And they discovered that by adding newspaper advertising to their campaigns, they cranked up their effectiveness by over 70%.

Increased effectiveness using newspapers

Retail	Automotive	Finance
2.8x	1.7x	5.7x

So, whatever the size your business or budget, get motoring into newspapers.

Fascias, Soffits & Guttering

GUTTER CLEARING SERVICE

Do your gutters have fallen leaves, sand, mud and other debris in them?

Most do, as with every rainfall the debris is washed into them from your roof top.

Do you want to save yourself the expensive repairs associated with the damage blocked gutters can cause to your home?

Regular clearing helps to prevent blocked gutters which can lead to costly repairs from burst pipes and water damage to your house structure.

Contact James on 01480 831970 (Evenings)
 or 07471164278 (Daytime)
 for an honest, reliable gutter clearing service.

Prices start at £20 a house.

Appointment times and quotations are available on request.

Public liability insurance held and CRB checked.

The role is an active nursing role with direct patient contact with particular emphasis on recruitment, sample collection, data entry and study co-ordination. The post holder will work within an established team of clinicians, researchers, research nurses and administrators and will involve some UK travel for which expenses will be reimbursed. JACK Smith believes he is in the right hands with trainer Steve Whitwell after turning professional at the tender age of 18.

Smith knows all about Whitwell's methods having boxed as an amateur with the coach at St Ives for the last three years.

And the Chatteris flyweight is putting his faith in Whitwell to guide him into the paid ranks as a result.

He said: "I've loved boxing for St Ives and I've learned so much every day from Steve because he's a good coach."

"I've learned a lot of discipline, but Steve puts his life into it and I look up to him for that."

"He knows his stuff and has got a lot of knowledge of boxing."

"Steve said he would only turn me over when he felt I was ready, but I had 41 bouts as an amateur and my style is more suited to the pros, so I just think this will be better for me."

Smith started out with hometown club Chatteris as a youngster before moving to Australia for two years.

On his return, he boxed for another Chatteris club, Ernie's, before moving to St Ives after his then coach felt it would be better for his progress.

And Smith felt St Ives was a good environment for him as a pro given the likes of former English light-welterweight champion Tyler Goodjohn, International Challenge cruiserweight belt-holder Karl Wheeler and Huntingdon heavy-weight Matt Parr also call it home.

He said: "It's close to home and it helps massively training with all the pros. They're like big brothers."

"It's good because I'll be training in the day as well. The first couple of weeks was really hard and the track sessions are a killer."

"But you get fitter and stronger and develop as well, so I feel I'm warming to it now."

Smith may make his debut as early as December or could wait until next spring before having his first outing, but is excited about the opportunity.

He said: "I can't wait to get out, but there's no rush because I'm only 18."

Robins defeated by Brantham

KELVIN Enaro and George Darling were both denied by the woodwork as Ely City lost 2-0 at Brantham in the Thurlow Nunn League, Premier Division.

Enaro's early attempt hit the bar, while James Seymour went close soon after.

And the visitors gained the lead just before half time after the Ely defence failed to clear their lines from a long throw.

Brantham doubled their advantage following a counter-attack that saw the ball hit the heel of Joe Brannan and spin into the path of the opposing striker to fire home.

Football

Darling had a great chance to reduce the arrears after being put in by Alex Theobald only to hit the upright with his effort.

Meanwhile, Ely under-18s are at home to Bedworth in the third qualifying round of the FA Youth Cup tonight (7pm) with the chance of reaching the first round proper for the first time.
